Job Title/Designation: Associate Professor of Sociology

About Me:

○ Experience / Expertise:

I started my full-time teaching profession in the month of February 1999 in an under-graduate college under the University of North Bengal. Before joining the present college, I taught in two other government colleges. From the very beginning of my profession, I was fond of Research Methodology and Social Statistics. For more than twenty years, I have found great joy in teaching Social Statistics to my students and in supervising their dissertations. Apart from the aforementioned, I also teach Social Issues and basic concepts of Sociology.

○ Specialisation & Area of Interests:

My areas of interests include Stress and Stress Management in the modern family and in different professions. My latest research project was on Stress, Coping Strategies and Social Support among school-going adolescents.
